Dear Law Enforcement Partners:

We at the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's (DHS) Office for State and Local Law Enforcement are working diligently to provide you – our state, local, tribal, and campus law enforcement partners – with the latest resources, information, and tools to help you keep your communities safe.

To this end, I am pleased to release the DHS State and Local Law Enforcement Resource Catalog, Volume VI that we hope will assist you in your efforts.

The DHS State and Local Law Enforcement Resource Catalog is a one-stop shop for non-federal law enforcement. It summarizes and provides links to training, programs, services, publications, newsletters, and other resources available to you from our DHS Offices and Components. If you cannot find what you are searching for in this catalog, please do not hesitate to contact the Office for State and Local Law Enforcement for additional assistance.

At DHS, we continue to develop new resources and programs to supplement the difficult jobs you perform daily. And, the Office for State and Local Law Enforcement is striving to enhance the support that DHS provides to law enforcement agencies across the country.

Our Office has identified three priority issues on which we will focus this year to help the law enforcement community: the opioid epidemic, school safety and active shooter, and recruitment and retention. These are issues we know are important to you and that you and your communities are facing.

We also are beginning to staff up our office as we add detailees from other DHS Components – including a representative from U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement – and we will be upgrading our website to make it more useful for you.

So, stay tuned for these and other new developments, and please continue to let us know if our Office for State and Local Law Enforcement can be of any assistance to you.

Best Regards,

Brian Dorow
Deputy Assistant Secretary
Office for State and Local Law Enforcement
